The Matrix: Reanimated

By IluvAtem

Submitted: November 20, 2006
Updated: November 22, 2006

Yu-Gi-Oh/Matrix crossover. lol.
Atem and Tea get sucked into the world of the Matrix. =D

~READ ON DUDES!~

1 - Welcome to The Matrix

 We got two more, Lutec! a man called.
 Let me see, a woman said. She was tall and thin, had long black hair and wore a black T-Shirt and trousers.
The man rolled the two bodies onto their backs.
 Byte, what are they? Lutec frowned.
 They re human-   Yes, I know that! I meant: age, hometown, height, weight, all that junk, She cut in.
Byte ran over to a computer and pressed a few keys. Hundreds of data files scrolled across the screen. It stopped on one, the screen divided into two columns. One column showed the females information and the other showed the males .

Lutec read the data and grunted with consent. Take them to the recovery unit and give them some clothes,
 Yes, Byte nodded. Cyph (say sife!)! Kaz! Take these two to the recovery unit!
 Yes, sir! a man and a woman replied.
. . . . . .
Atem groaned. He felt like someone had shot a large hole in the back of his head.
 Are you okay? a female voice asked quietly.
His eyes flickered open. He found himself lying on a bed, wearing jeans and a baggy jumper. He saw Tea. She lay in a bed next to him, wearing the same clothes. She gazed at him worriedly.
 Where am I? Atem croaked.
 I don t know, Tea replied.
 Ow . . . my head . . .   Atem groaned, sitting up and ruffling his hair.
 Um . . . there s something you might want to know about that- Tea began.
 AAAHHHH!!!
 Uh . . .
 What in the name of Ra is on the back of my head?!
 Um . . . I think it s a socket for some kind of plug, I ve got one too, Tea said.

Lutec entered the room. Come with me please, Atem. I have to show you something,
Tea gulped. She had done this before Atem was awake. Good luck,

After a short silence, there was a thud and a clatter. Tea burst into the room.
Atem had ripped the plug from his head, leapt out of the chair and was stammering on the floor. Byte stepped forward.
 G-Get away from me! Atem bumped into a wall and fell onto his hands and knees.
Lutec stepped forward.
 ALL OF YOU! STAY AWAY! I DON T KNOW WHAT THAT WAS OR WHERE I AM, BUT YOU ARE NOT GOING TO DO THAT TO ME AGAIN!!! Atem roared.
His vision began to blur. He became short of breath.
 He s gonna blow! Cyph hissed.
 Just breathe, Atem! Kaz barked.
Atem choked, vomited and collapsed.

Atem lay awake when Lutec came into the room. She sat down on the edge of the bed.
 Welcome to the Matrix, my friend, she smiled.
Atem glanced at her drowsily over his shoulder, as if she was insane.

2 - Day 2

Atem and Tea sat back.
 Are you ready? Cyph asked.
 No-AAH! Tea began. Lutec plugged her in, then Atem.
He gasped, eyes wide. She closed his eyes and Kaz and Byte booted up the computer.

After mastering the Tutorial programmes, Atem and Tea were given guns. They were told to watch their backs and destroy the Nooks -hackers in the Matrix that knew all the same moves- quickly.
This was the real thing, not a tutorial. Those programmes were deadly and were a threat to anyone who had a socket in the back of their head or was even in the Matrix.

Tea wore a leather suit with a belt across the middle. Atem wore big black boots with straps and buckles on, a black shirt, a belt with weapons on and a plain belt, black trousers, and a long black trench coat.
 Nice outfit, Tea smiled.
 Thank you, Atem replied. You don t look too bad yourself,
Tea giggled at the compliment.

CRASH!
Two Nooks crashed through a window, instantly firing their guns at the pair.
Atem dodged the bullets, back flipping across the room. He shot his opponent in mid-air.
Tea kicked hers and then shot him with his own gun.
They heard a telephone ringing in another room. The door was locked. The pair kicked the steel door off its hinges and stepped in.
Tea grabbed the phone.
 Hell- she cut off.

Tea s eyes flickered open. Atem woke up too.
 Not bad for a first attempt, Cyph smiled.
 You should get some rest, then eat. It can be pretty exhausting, Lutec said.

After a day s rest, Atem and Tea were awake again.
Atem had already eaten and was gulping down a bottle of ice-cold water.
Tea was in the bedroom. She hadn t eaten anything.
Atem came in to see her.
 Are you alright? his deep voice filled the room. You haven t eaten a thing since we got here. You must be hungry,

 I-I m scared, Pharaoh, Tea muttered.
Atem sat down beside her. His features softened. She could see the concern in his eyes and the worry in his furrowed brow.
 What are you scared of? he asked.
 This place. I mean, one minute we re in this slime stuff, naked and covered in wires, then we re here, shooting computer programmes with sockets in our skulls! She said.

I feel the same way, but it looks like we re staying here until we beat these computer programmes, Atem agreed.

It s just too much! Tea sniffed, tears rolling down her cheeks.

Atem pulled her in for a hug and she wrapped her arms around him, sobbing onto his chest.

3 - Live what you've Learnt

Atem and Tea got the chance to spend one last day in the real world.
Unfortunately, they had to go to school and Nooks had leaked into the real world with them . . .

It was English, third lesson. Tea wasn t in Atem s class, so the Nook s didn t have to look far to spot the socket in the back of his head.
 Atem! Atem heard Lutec s voice in his head.
 What the . . . he muttered.
 It s me! Lutec! I found you on the tracker. Listen, you are in serious danger. We got Tea back as soon as we could, but you seem to have something blocking your path back. Nooks have escaped into this world with you. They are far too dangerous to battle out there. You have to run. We ll try and get you back,
 Would you mind getting out of my head?
 Okay, good luck,

Nooks gathered at the windows.
Atem jumped to his feet.
 Atem, will you please sit down! Mr. Ju yelled.
Atem ignored him and ran out of the room. Nooks chased after him. He sprinted down the corridors. He span round. There was no escape, unless he rampaged through the nearest classroom and climbed out of a window.
That was exactly what he did.

He leapt across desks, flung the window open and climbed out. Atem climbed up to the roof. It was no use they were on the roof! He turned around and gripped the bars of the fence that enclosed the roof of the school. He closed his eyes.
Mr. Ju poked his head out of a window. Atem! What are you doing? Get down from there at once! he bellowed.

Atem held his breath and let go.
Students gasped and teachers looked horrified.
He hit the ground with a thud and rolled into the road.
 Oh, my God! Mrs. Gigs gasped.

Blood poured from Atem s mouth.
Lutec s voice entered his mind again. Atem. Get up! They re coming!
. . .
 Get up! she snapped.
. . .

Atem grunted and pulled himself to his feet.
 Impossible! both teachers breathed.
Nooks filed out of the building. The chase was on again. Atem sprinted as fast as his slim legs would allow him to go.

He panted, but urged on.
Nooks cornered him in an alley.
Wasting no time at all, Atem ran up and across the wall, landing on both feet behind them and running again.

Bullets flew.
Atem tripped over and slid behind a bin.
He lay there, breathing heavily. He had no strength to get up.

 GET UP! GET UP NOW!!!

 I can t . . . I can t get up . . . he wheezed.